A Fairy-Tale Evening

Sydney Leavens '98

Once upon a time it was June 4th, 1998 and seniors cast away their rags and dressed for the ball. At 8:00 on that Thursday night they arrived with their dates at the Marriot in style. While horse-drawn carriages were few and far between, limos added glamour to the evening for many. On the dance floor seniors danced to a variety of types of music, from rap to ska to slow and romantic. If they tired of dancing the invitees could sip carbonated beverages in the lobby and compliment each other on their magnificent evening wear. When the clock struck 12:00, they fled the Marriot like Cinderella fled the ball, but the fairy tale evening did not end there. Seniors and their dates could then board buses to Tent City, where, for a mere $20.00, they could dance the rest of the evening away under the tent flaps and hold conversations under starry skies.

A Magical Evening

Sydney Leavens '98

On Wednesday, June 9, only hours after the award ceremony, seniors gathered at BayPath College to celebrate their upcoming graduation and the golden years they had spent at LHS. Each senior received a photo album with the Lancer logo on the cover -- a must for prom pictures. As seniors dined on chicken, steak or pasta, class secretary Leah Halsey publicly thanked Dr. Murphy for his years of support of the class as principal. Vice President Justine Kurland gave a brief speech thanking the advisors and presented them with tokens of appreciation. Vice President Dave Patterson then presented the class superlatives.

The highlight of the evening, of course, was the slide show, which was followed by the presentation of the yearbook and its dedication to Mr. Goodwin. Senior issues of the Jet Jotter and Impressions were also made available as seniors departed.

A SUMMER GETAWAY

Sydney Leavens '98

The Senior trip to High Meadows is always a special one, and this year's was no different. While the weather was far from perfect -- seniors sported sweatshirts rather than tanning oi -- the trip allowed seniors a chance to bond one last time before Sunday's graduation. On Thursday, June 10th at 4:00 P.M., seniors boarded buses for the half hour ride. Once at High Meadows, they played softball, basketball and ultimate Frisbee, participated in a pie eating contest, and a brave few even (brrr!) went swimming. If tired, they retreated to the club's lodge for hamburgers, hot dogs and soda. As the sun went down and the afternoon's games came to a close, the memorable lip-sync contest was held. Particularly funny was Brian Wezowicz's impersonation of a Spice Girl. At 11:00 the evening came to a close and the weary, but bonded, seniors boarded buses for home.

Graduation

Mike McGarry '99

Once again, Longmeadow High School has graduated another group of talented and promising seniors. On June 14th, the town watched as the junior marshals, Justin Blair and Julie Bailey, ushered in the class of 1998 for their final gathering. Their entrance was accompanied by the traditional playing of "Pomp and Circumstance" as interpreted by the Brass Choir under the direction of Mr. Mucci.

Once seated the graduating class was offered words of advice and encouragement from the Principal Doctor Murphy, Superintendent Doctor McGarry, and this year's guest speaker, Doctor Joseph J. Ellis, a professor at Mount Holyoke College. In addition, a reflection on the class' time together was offered by class president, Ryan Thompson, and the school was presented the class' gift by Treasurer Benji Russel. This year the class donated large sums of money to different organizations and clubs throughout the school. Diplomas were then presented to the class, followed by the customary tossing of the caps. With that, the class of 1998 officially completed their stay at LHS and moved on into the exciting and limitless future.

Major Works

Sheetal Khera '00

The Major Works Concert, held on the 21st of May, featured the Wind Ensemble, Lyrics, and Symphony Orchestra. The concert began with a bang, with the Wind Ensemble's performance of Carmina Burana. The thirteen movements were performed flawlessly and left the audience speechless and on their feet in ovation. Following them was Lyrics. The vocal group performed a piece entitled Requiem and, as always, gave an incredible performance, featuring solos from seniors Swaroop Samant, Katie Mikesh, Sara Gowtham amd Dana Lanids as well as sophomore Nora Camp. The evening ended with the Symphony Orchestra's performance of the second suite from Prokofiev's Romeo and Juliet. The six movements were performed beautifully and featured solos from seniors Isabelle Eiff, Dan Friedman and Jessie Steinman, as well as junior Sammy Chang. The entire evening went beautifully and featured truly memorable music.

The annual Spring Concert, held on May 28th, was once again a huge hit and marked the end of another fantastic concert season here at LHS. The Women's Chorus led off the evening with two wonderful pieces. They were followed by the Concert Band, whose performance of "Inferno" was not only an ensemble favorite, but an audience one as well. Men's Chorus performed the popular Billy Joel song, "For the Longest Time" and were followed by Shatic Mitchell and Elward Tyrell performing a Music Lab Composition, a first for the Spring Concert. Following them was perhaps the greatest highlight of the evening for many, a performance by Lloyd. The A Cappella group performed Boyz II Men's "Hard to Say Goodbye," a fitting tribute to the end of the concert season and there graduating seniors. A special Jazz combo performance followed intermission and La Cappella was also featured in the second half of the evening. They performed a medley of songs including a piece entitled, "Africa." Finally, to end out the evening the ever-popular Jazz Ensemble performed "A Tribute to Duke Ellington," a compilation of five Ellington pieces. All in all the concert was a huge success as was the entire year for the musicians here at LHS.

An Evening Gala

Nicole Megatulski '00 and Jessica Dugre '00

On the night of March 27, sophomores, along with some freshmen and upper classmen assembled in front of LHS awaiting their golden coaches to bring the stylishly dressed to BayPath College for an evening of dinner and dancing. Round tables were filled with laughter and enjoyment as everyone finished dinner in a rush to hit the dance floor. (Many didn't even sit long enough for their ice cream sundaes to melt.) Not a space could be found on the dance floor as students from all grades removed their shoes and danced all the way to the last note. The evening seemed to come to a close much too soon as their golden coaches arrived to return them to LHS. The students rushed to get on the first bus in order to make it back to parties that lasted well into the night. Many returned home in the wee hours of the morning only to retire their dancing shoes and remember this night for years to come.

BASEBALL

Christa McCarthy-Miller '01

The varsity and junior varsity baseball teams had a long and hard season. The varsity team, led by coaches John Mayo, Dan Donovan, and Tim Doyle had a record of 8 wins and 12 losses. The team pulled together at the beginning of the season but began to struggle towards the end. Senior team captains this season were Adam Kramer and Steve Stierer. Kramer led the team in batting average at around .500, while Stierer helped the infield be at its best. He played a large part in some of the wins, because of his outstanding pitching. The Varsity team was composed of one freshman, four sophpomores, four juniors, and four seniors. Freshman Adam Derby says, "Being on the team was a lot of fun. It was a great experience, because of the leadership exhibited by some of the guys on the team. Everyone pulled together in an attempt to make it into the playoffs."

The Junior Varsity team also had a great season as well. The team learned a lot and enjoyed themselves at the same time. Sophomore captains Sean Ginley and Dan Gallant helped the team through the many ups and downs of the season. Ginley and freshman Chris Methe alternated pitching, while Ryan Devine was crucial in keeping the outfield at its best. The team, with the strength of their freshmen, is looking forwad to next season.

SOFTBALL

Samantha Baxter '01

The Varsity Girls' Softball Team had an exciting season this year improving last year's record to finish 8-10. Although it was not one of their best seasons, the team always stayed upbeat and optimistic thanks to the team's great spirit, and the leadership of the team captains seniors Kathy Danahey and Margaret McKenna. Some key players during this "rebuilding" year were seniors Lauren Joyce who was voted team MVP, McKenna, and sophomore Sara Albert. The team was also helped out by great pitching from Joyce, and junior Lauren Frank. Junior Candace McCarthy remarkes on the team's season, "Despite the fact that we didn't have a lot of luck this season, we all still had a lot of fun working together as a team, and we learned a lot throughout the season as well."

The Junior Varsity team of '98 also had a great season, thanks to the leadership of their captains sophomores Emily McMahon and Jocelyn Farmer, as well as the outstanding coaching of Kerry Jenkins. Congratulations to both teams on excellent seasons!

BOYS TRACK

Shannon Bradley '99

The boys track team, led by Coaches Efstratios and Provonos, along with senior captains Ken Sheffield, Chris Johnson, and Andrew Camp finished the year with a record of 3-4-1. Many new and talented members joined the track team for the '98 season, and they showed promise for the years to come. The team saw its share of victories and losses this season, and were able to make it all the way to the Western Mass Championships where they finished in fourth place. However, the year did not finish there for this impressive team. Seniors Andrew Camp, Chris Johnson, Junior Trip Young, and freshman Jonathan Lafrance, composed the four by eight relay team that represented LHS at States. This impressive debut by the freshmen Lafrance, shows the incredible and valuable talent of the newcomers to the team. Senior Andrew Camp also represented the team at states, running in the mile. Congratulations to all of the outstanding athletes!

The girls track and field team had an outstanding season this year. Under the leadership of Coach Beth Pelland and senior captains KC Washington, Jess Farmer, Jen Hamlin, Katie Garvey, and Leah Halsey the team posted a regualr season record of 7-2. Three school records were also broken during the season. One was the 4x800 relay in which Hamlin, junior Katie Ward, and sophomores Nora Camp, and Laura Harwood broke the record by ten seconds. Washington broke the record in the discus with a 99ft10 in throw, and sophomore Laura Risi broke the record in the pole vault. The team as a whole worked together towards this successful season. "It's an outstanding group of girls, and I'm looking forward to next season," said Coach Pelland.

The LHS boys' Varsity lacrosse team played hard and as a team all throughout the season and found that with this cooperation and effort the team could go quite far. They made it to the playoffs for the twenty-ninth consecutive season, a most an impressive feat. One of the team's strengths was their incredible talent. With the help of their captains, the younger players developed into outstanding athletes. The future looks bright for the boys' lacrosse team in upcoming years.

Some key players who made amazing contributions to the team are Eli Greiner (long stick mid-fielder), Brian Weeks (mid-fielder), and Brian Wezowicz (defense). Captains Matt Szlachetka, Brian Wezowicz, Jay MacDonald and Ryan Thompson did an outstanding job of showing how teamwork is the key to success. Coach Glen Maller and Assistant Coach Marty Lynch guided the team toward another season full of accomplishments.

The Junior Varsity boys' lacrosse team also had an excellent season. Although they had a rocky start, the team improved tremendously once they learned to come together. Sophomore captains Dan Gold, Tim Walsh and Will Chamberlain were great role-models for the rest of the team. They all will make great additions to the varsity team this coming season.

GIRLS LACROSSE

Brianna Murphy '00

The Varsity Girls Lacrosse team went all out this year with another great season. The team, consisting of six seniors, eight juniors, four sophomores and one freshman, was very talented and with so many underclassmen, should come back very strong in the next few years. Senior Co-Captains Bridget O'Connor, Katie Heaps, and Meghan Martin led the team with their leadership and ability. The team went 14-5, making it to the quarter finals in the state tournament. Some players to watch next season will be junior Meaghan McCormick, and sophomores Melissa Martinelli and Courtney Brown.

The Junior Varsity Lacrosse Team was impressive as well this season winning all but two of their games. Sophomore captains, Sarah Stewart and Molly LaBroad pulled the team together when it counted, leading their team to several victories throughout the season. Coaches Kim VanGaasbeck and Kim Visco are both excited for their third year of coaching next season and are ready for another great year.

The 1998 Boys' Tennis Team had an extremely successful season that yielded a Western Massachusetts Championship. Led by captains, senior Rick Harbison and junior Alex Grodd, and Coach Mr. McCarthy, the team finished the season with a record of 13 wins and 2 losses. Though all of the members contributed to the team's success, some of the key players this season were senior Rick Harbison, juniors Alex Grodd, Justin Blair, and Mayer Kahan along with sophomores Ryan Birtwell, Mike McCary, and Howie Kung. Alex Grodd summed up the effort by saying, "We worked hard and had fun as a team, and it translated into a great season." Congratulations on another excellent season!

Erin D'Elia '00

The Longmeadow High School Girls' Tennis Team led by new coach Steve Lesko and senior co-captains, Justine Kurland and Cassie Marantz, had an excellent '98 season, finishing with an incredible record of 13-1. The team's record allowed them to compete in the Western Mass. Competition for the eighth year in a row. However the team was defeated, despite an all out effort by the LHS players. As the team looks back on the year they remeber the enthusiasm and support they received from one another and their numerous McDonald's celebrations. The team is confident that there will be many more celebrations to come and they are determined to regain their spot on top.

Key players this season were seniors Isabelle Eiff, Cassie Marantz, Jen Kuhr, Becky Rhee and Justine Kurland, as well as juniors Pia Solomon and Jaclyn Loizzo. The team also benefited from strong play by sophomores Rebecca Jangraw, Klara DeTemmerman, Raeka Talati and Erin D'Elia. The outstanding underclassmen show incredible promise for more outstanding play in the coming seasons. Congratulations to all of the players on yet another outstanding season!!

Once Upon a Time. . .

The path through Longmeadow High School on the way to the "real world" has not always been paved with smiles, fun, and happiness. Indeed, we all have discovered that Longmeadow quite often is not the castle on a cloud as it is perceived. However, like all of the fairy tale characters we have grown up to admire, we at Longmeadow find ourselves constantly striving to better ourselves. Like Princess Winnifred, we search to gain more out of life and our time together. And that is what Longmeadow High School has been for us -- a place to discover our dreams and our hopes and perhaps, if we're lucky, ourselves. Through friendship, laughter, and yes, even stress, we have pushed ourselves to become who we were always meant to be. Along the way, we've realized that people and lives inevitably change, that how we care is who we are, and that, even though we are a little scared, we are ready for the whole new world that awaits us just outside the castle gates. These years at Longmeadow High School are an important chapter in our lives--they are our stories' beginnings filled with memories, experiences, and dreams...

DEDICATION

The class of 1998 proudly dedicates "Once Upon a Time," the 1998 Masacksic, to Mr. Jeff Goodwin. Mr. Goodwin's humor, friendship, and obvious love for teaching has greatly influenced the lives of his faithful students. No matter how difficult the challenge, he has always found a way of reaching those in need. Through laughter, perseverance, and his unique teaching style, Mr. Goodwin epitomizes the distinguished teacher and role model.

Teacher of biology and chemistry, Mr. Goodwin cares about helping his students in and out of the classroom. Many seniors claim to have formed a rare bond with Mr. Goodwin. Because he is so open, friendly, and accessible, some seniors who never even had the privilege of being in one of Mr. Goodwin's classes consider themselves his students. They claim that he teaches lessons about life as well as lessons in science. He understands and, as one student puts it, "always knows the right things to say."

One of Mr. Goodwin's finest attributes is his teaching style inside of the classroom. Mr. Goodwin's classroom, which consists of a light-hearted yet hard-working atmosphere, houses the magical world of horse friends, moles, and other imaginative characters. These are the characters that always end up on his tests which teach a lesson and tell a story. Mr. Goodwin's tests spark the interest of all of his students in a voice all his own.

Talented teacher, mentor, creator, Mr. Goodwin has served another important role for the Class of 1998. He has been our friend.

Once upon a time in the small kingdom of Longmeadow, there were two manors, the House of William and the House of the Glenn Brook. While both were alike in dignity and were separated by only a few acres, they seemed worlds apart. Communication amongst the manors was scarce. As gossip and rumors flew, a fledgling rivalry arose. Anxieties grew when the time came nearer for them to merge forces at the Longmeadow High Castle...

FREE AT LAST!

by Jennifer Ranahan

Summer vacation serves as a break between two seemingly endless and very tiring school years, and is much needed by the students here at Longmeadow High School. Some people used the summer as a resting period that included nothing more than reducing themselves to couch potatoes while catching the occasional ray of sun. While others used it as a time to get away from Longmeadow (which is usually dormant during the summer) and went somewhere exciting. Sophomore Marisa Moseley escaped to Guyana for two weeks where she visited friends and family while touring the country. Emily Darling, a sophomore, toured Israel for two weeks with her family and a tour group. Senior Swaroop Samant visited his relatives in Mumbai, India. In fact, there was probably a native of LHS in just about every corner of the world this summer. And for those who couldn't get away this summer, camps were a popular way of passing the summer. Longmeadow campers did just about everything imaginable, from basketball camp at Babson college to tennis camp in South Hadley. It's safe to say that everyone enjoyed their time away from school, whether they sat in front of the television all summer, or took exciting trips. Can't wait 'till next year!!

HELD CAPTIVE

by Jennifer Ranahan

New to LHS this year are Student Learning Opportunities, or SLOs. (Some comical teachers like to refer to them as SLOPS.) SLO is the euphemism for what was originally called a "study hall," before the state instituted the 990 hour requirement on all students. Unfortunately the study halls of the fairy-tale past just don't qualify as real "learning opportunities" anymore.

All students are assigned to a room for their SLO blocks. For freshmen, nothing has really changed, because they are still stuck in an assigned SLO for the entire hour. However, for sophomores, juniors, and seniors, a SLO is something new. Gone now are the days of reminiscing about freshmen studies. Sophomores no longer have the luxury of cafeteria studies with food and friends. The freedom of having free blocks and leaving the school, is gone for juniors and seniors, who can no longer think back to their freshmen and sophomore years and laugh.

As for the students' reactions, some find the new SLOs to be helpful because it forces them to sit down and get work done without distractions. A great majority of students however, prefer the freedom of cafe studies and free blocks, and can now only hope for something, anything, to rescue them from the captivity of SLOs.

by Sheetal Khera

If you're ever sitting in English class and the teacher asks for an example of an oxymoron try this out: a fun weekend in Long meadow. Weekends are supposed to be a fun time spent relaxing and hanging out with friends. Unfortunately, Longmeadow doesn't exactly abound with excitement. Most Friday nights here in Longmeadow consist of a very cold night at the football game and maybe a stop at Friendlys or Lil Peach afterwards. Or for some of the less fortunate the night is spent baby-sitting or in some cases being baby-sat.

With Friday night down, two more days are left to the weekend. At this point, most people are at a loss for things to do. It's widely agreed among the students at LHS, that to have an enjoyable weekend you have to do everything in your power to get out of Longmeadow. Hitting the slopes is always a popular way to spend a winter weekend, or some prefer to take a day trip up to New York City. Weekends, or perhaps Sundays, can be a very important part of the weekend for lot of students, especially those who like to begin their three hours of tedious homework at around ten-thirty that night.

Once in a while, term paper blues can also kill your weekend plans, but there's always a good weekend to be had — just be prepared to have to go out and find it!

HEIGH HO, HEIGH HO

by Sydney Leavens

Whether in need of spending money, a car, or trying to help relieve the overwhelming burden of college tuition costs looming in the near future, many LHS students have hit the work force.

While most students have little to offer in the form of degrees and experience, they usually can find minimum wage jobs at almost any of Longmeadow's businesses. CVS, Friendly's, Armada's, and Rinaldi's are some of the many places that employ teenagers part-time.

Students with special skills can also find jobs lifeguarding or working for the local paper and/or LCTV. Even for students lucky enough to land such jobs, the pay may be less than desirable. Still, an after school job usually supplies enough money to pay off the month's car insurance and have enough left over for a Saturday night out on the town.

WE LOVE CITRUS!

by Kellie Tracy

The Fruit Sale is the major fund-raising project of the LHS Music Department. Held annually in the fall, the sale raises money to fund the year's busing to concerts, competitions and auditions, to purchase music, and to be saved for future occasions. This year, the Fruit Sale brought in a whopping $12,000 profit.

The success of the sale was due greatly to the hard work of the student musicians. Each music student was required to sell $100 worth of citrus oranges and grapefruits over a span of approximately two weeks. Then, in early December when the orders came in, many students sacrificed SLOs to lug the boxes to the auditorium stage. Still more worked on Saturday, December 6th, carrying 20 pound boxes of fruit to cars and verifying receipts. Commented vocal music director Peter Thomsen, "I think the Fruit Sale gives the students a wonderful opportunity to work together to support public education." Obviously, the students agreed.

CHANGE PLEASE
PIANO

Seniors Diego Hermosilla and Lia Lefreniere delight Juniors Robyn Weinstein, Seamus Cullinan, Keith Bartolomei by talking to them at the dance. (below)

by Sydney Leavens

For some guys, the thought of a school dance brings date-anxiety. It is not too rare for a guy to clear his throat, grab the pen on his desk with a shaking grip, and begin drafting a note to the girl next to him in math class containing that one ominous question: Will you go to the dance with me?

The Sadie Hawkins Dance let the male population breathe a little easier. For this dance, held on Friday, December 12th, girls asked the guys. As usual, the setting was the lovely (and elegant) school cafeteria. However, this year's dance had a new twist. Instead of being limited to juniors and seniors, it was open to the whole school. Freshmen and sophomores joined the upperclassmen to dance to popular music and to drink the free soda provided. While the dance was momentarily disrupted when a fire alarm was pulled, sending students shivering to the lobby, overall attendees had a good time.

The dance served as a fund-raiser for all four classes. The money earned at the event was split up proportionally based upon the number of students that attended from each respective class. However, the dance enhanced school spirit as well. Remarked Senior Class Secretary Leah Halsey, "Students look forward to chances to get together other than during the school day and at sporting events."

BIPPITY BOPPITY BOO!

by Sydney Leavens

Despite a lower attendence than in years past, this year's Halloween Dance was a great success. Lured by such perks as free soda, a great DJ and a professional photographer to capture the memories, Juniors and Seniors gathered after the night's football game, dressed in costume, to dance the evening away.

A popular event of the evening was the contest for the best costumes. Contestants were required to walk slowly in a circle so that judges could see their costumes as the DJ helpfully played music. The contenders were senior Imran Faruqi, who came dressed as a member of the Star Trek crew, and seniors Alison Hyde, Kate Garvey, Becky Williamson, Ryan McMahon, Margaret Townsend, and Lauren Katz, who came as the Spice Girls.

UM...LADYLIKE?

by Sydney Leavens

Practices might have been few and far between, but if team spirit was the determining factor, the Daisy and Weeds teams were well prepared for the annual Daisy Weeds game held Wednesday, November 26th. Each team began wearing its uniform, sweatpants and sweatshirts emblazoned with intimidating messages for the other team, on Tuesday.

On Wednesday, the two teams came dressed up again to participate in the pep rally, each team competing to scream louder and look stronger. The daisies, perhaps in retaliation for the intrusion of the night before, came equipped with music from Rocky

At noon, it was finally time for the much anticipated game. Weeds coach Mr. O'Shea went over plays with help from his daughter, who remained on his shoulders throughout the game. On the opposite side of the field, Mr. Ellis and Mr. Morrisette coached the Daisies.

The day seemed about to go to the Weeds in the last few minutes of the game with the score at 12-7. However, to the tune of the buzzer the Daisies scored a touchdown, bringing the game to a close with a tie.

A ROYAL SLUMP

by Sydney Leavens

Senior year for the class of 1998 has been tarnished by the introduction of SLO blocks and the loss of the senior lounge. However, these inconveniences have not prevented seniors from accomplishing that which seniors do best... NOTHING AT ALL.

Oh, sure, we put on an amazing senior class play, we pursued our extracurricular activities diligently, and we certainly experienced the "college application grind" of first semester. However, once the last of our letters was finished, so was our work ethic.

We lounged. We slept. We watched Melrose Place, Jeopardy and even infomercials. We held meaningful conversations with our parents, brothers, sisters, dogs, and fifth-cousins-twice-removed named Vinny to whom we hadn't spoken since he entered the witness protection program and moved to Arkansas. In short, we did anything and everything possible to avoid doing homework.

Next year we will make up for this year of slacking as we head off to our future destinations... but what does this one minuscule semester matter in the whole scheme of things? After all, which will we be most likely to remember 40 years from now, the specifics of the reign of Charlemagne over the Holy Roman Empire or the specifics of an aimless afternoon spent driving around the parking lot of Dunkin' Doughnuts? Actually, probably neither, so we might as well be having FUN!

IN THE BANQUET HALL

by Sheetal Khera

Ah... lunch time in the LHS cafeteria. It's finally a time to take a break from lecturing teachers and to relax and socialize with friends. Or so a freshman would hope. In actuality, the cafeteria acts as yet another way to define the social hierarchy of the school. Freshmen, who are lowest in rank, are stuck by the wall.

Mashed up against the far right wall provides for little space, if any, for freshmen to sit and relax. The lunches, especially first and third, are crowded, but freshmen are not able to migrate to open spaces in the center of the cafeteria, which is definitely non-freshmen governed territory.

The airless freshmen cafeteria section is to be expected though. Freshmen are, of course, perched on the bottom rung of the ladder of high school evolution. As they become sophomores, juniors, and finally seniors, they will someday see the light of day in the more spacious area by the windows. It serves as a great incentive.

FAIRY TALE FINERY

by Jennifer Ranahan and Emily Darling

The '97-'98 school year at LHS showed a wide variety of fashions, fads, and trends. From two-inch platforms to cargo pants, the halls of Longmeadow High School looked more like the runways of New York City. Adidas bags adorned the backs of many students, while the ever popular L.L. Bean backpacks were seen on just about every freshman. Bootcut jeans gained popularity last year and were still a necessity in every student's wardrobe. Overalls made a comeback from our elementary school years. Comfy wool sweaters and cargo pants were "in" for the winter season, along with the revived "pea coat". However, on brisk winter mornings, it wasn't uncommon for many students to just throw on their Adidas warm-ups and a sweatshirt for the long day ahead of them.

IN THE BALLROOM

by Rose Calucchia

The Jr/Sr semi-formal is an opportunity for both juniors and seniors to come together as upperclassmen for one elegant evening. This year's Jr/Sr semi-formal was also largely attended by underclassmen and students from neighboring high schools who were invited as dates of the LHS juniors and seniors.

The dance, held at Chez Josef, was once again a huge success. The dance floor was over-flowing with students while the DJ played all types of music. The only complaint, in fact, commonly heard from students was that there seemed to be a lack of dance space; it was too crowded! The dance lasted for three and a half hours, but the festivities continued long into the night with post-dance activities.

Everyone looked spectacular and a fabulous time was had by all.

WE HAVE AN OPENING…

by Sydney Leavens

November is notorious for being crunch time for seniors. Still, the seniors complained very little and their performance of "Once Upon a Mattress" went down in the books as one of the best senior class plays ever to grace the stage of the LHS auditorium.

The spectacular and hilarious performances of Katie Mikesh (Princess Winnifred), Dave Patterson (Prince Dauntless), Sassie Freedberg (Queen Agravain), Steve Cantin (King Sextimus), Evelyn Orenstein (Lady Larken), Eric Tjonahen (Sir Harry), Swaroop Samant (Minstrel), Cassie Marantz (Jester), and Mike Burton (Wizard) left the audience amazed and delighted.

The hard work and dedication of the Pit Orchestra also contributed to the play's success. Conductors Dana Landis and Jessie Steinman, both who hope to pursue careers in the music field, extended their rehearsal schedule to include "retreats" — full day rehearsals usually held on weekends.

Much of the hard work was accomplished behind the scenes, as senior directors Ben Abbate and Rebecca Cohen-Shrage labored for countless hours after school, along with co-producers Sydney Leavens and Drew Starr. Stephanie Angelides and Julia Rousse were the stage managers, and Jason McDonald was the technical director. Rich Baker constructed most of the class' fabulous set, and Laura Stewart designed the T-shirts and playbill. While space limits the students who can be mentioned by name, it was the work of all the seniors involved that made "Once Upon a Mattress" one of the best senior class plays in LHS history.

LIL' PRINCES AND PRINCESSES

by Sydney Leavens

Once upon a time a child was born — 200 or so of them in fact. These children learned how to cry, to walk and to speak. They played in sand boxes, stuck their fingers in the icing of birthday cakes, and watched Maria, big bird and the gang on Sesame street. One day, equipped with smurf lunchboxes and brand new shoes, these little warriors were sent to seek their own destinies in the form of public education.

It was quite a traumatic experience when whole playgroups were split along enemy lines into the Center, Blueberry and Wolf Swamp zones. But recess was good, and kickball on Fridays wasn't so bad either. Fourth grade brought safetyhood to many complete with orange sashes and smelly ponchos.

Once again, the knights of 1980 (and some '79 and '81 as well) were forced to form new allies in the middle school wars. Vanilla Ice's hit "Ice, Ice Baby" was all the rage as were snap bracelets and "Full House." Sporting fluorescent tye-dye, jam shorts, and (of course) side ponytails and the bang-whirl, the newly proclaimed Williams and Glenbrookers found the middle school not as scary as they had expected. In seventh grade they began switching classes and in eighth grade they sauntered with their big backpacks as the kings and queens of the castle.

High Castle contained many surprises which created quite a stir. Among the most feared was the murky moat in which they were forced to play water polo. The newcomers were dazzled by the psychedelic orange corridor and the variety of delicacies served at the Banquet Hall. After entering the majestic High Castle Horseshoe, they were greeted every morning by the court herald's melodious "good-morning-morning-announcements." Surely, Longmeadow High Castle held much to be discovered…

on top of the world

*Once upon a time--*the year was 1994--we remember the dues drive, the countless phone calls, the whys of such a drive? We think back on the first class trip to New York--the South Street Seaport shopping trip, the plays--Les Miserables and Miss Saigon. We remember the question--are these freshman ready for a play such as Miss Saigon?

*Once upon a time--*the year was 1995--the Sophomore lock-in, the "unusual" pizzas donated by Bertucci's, Dr. Murphy in the kitchen heating up all those pizzas, the exhausted bodies trying to get a moment of sleep anywhere. How wonderful it was for all the help we received in preparing, and cleaning. We remember the support from the parents that chaperoned during the wee hours of the morning. We remember the Sophomore Dinner Dance at Bay Path. Did that bus really break down? We all did finally arrive, even if we went in shifts, and fortunately the bus was in working order for our return trip to LHS.
In the Spring the Sophomore trip to New York--once again shopping at the Seaport--What a gorgeous day it was! The plays were The King & I and Sunset Boulevard. We spent time looking for the two lost students who weren't really lost--just following directions--"If separated, stay put!"--but we didn't know where they were staying put!!!

*Once upon a time--*the year was 1996--the Class of '98 was more than half-way there! We remember the car wash--with the broken nozzle--Will this be the waterless car wash? Aha! A parent to the rescue with the correct Allen wrench! Then there came time for the Junior-Senior Semi-Formal at Chez Josef. Would there be a need for a breathalizer? No, we were on our best behavior all decked out in those fancy clothes--with the occasional sound of "My strap broke--does anyone have a safety pin?"

*Once upon a time--*the year was 1997--We remember the car wash--again a scramble to get the water running--does that faucet key really work? The back to school dance, the Halloween dance, the Sadie Hawkins dance--Who won that best costume award at the Halloween dance? What girl asked you to the Sadie Hawkins?
We will always remember Once Upon a Mattress. Oh, will we remember it - the ordering of scripts, the painting of sets, the tears of sorrow, the tears of laughter, the endless time in the cafeteria as we awaited our turn to perform. Setting up the television monitors so we could see what was going on stage. Wondering - The pit orchestra, will they be too loud? The backstage crew--will they be too loud?? The cast behind the curtains, will they be too loud??? The actors, will they be loud enough???? And with style and grace you came through with flying colors and put on a memorable performance.

*Once upon a time--*the year 1998 was happening--As we write this and reminisce, we are thinking - the Junior-Senior is next week, the Valentines and Heart-To-Heart are near at hand, we are in the midst of college acceptances, looking forward to the senior week with the banquet, High Meadows, Prom, rehearsals, and finally graduation.

*Once upon a time--*the next millennium--where are you, Class of 1998? Happy, healthy, full of remembrances. We wish you well. We are proud to have been your advisors.

Bravo, Bravo, Bravissimo!!!!!!

library without a pass!"... "having our own lunchtime"... "perhaps we could actually have senior privileges"..

We ...are the children of the Eighties. We are not the first "lost generation," nor today's lost generation; in fact, we think we know just where we stand-or are discovering it as we speak. We are the ones who played with Lego Building Blocks when they were just building blocks and gave Malibu Barbie crewcuts with safety scissors that never really cut. We collected Garbage Pail Kids and Cabbage Patch Kids and My Little Ponies and Hot Wheels and He-Man action figures and thought She-Ra was the perfect woman. We played with Pogo Sticks, Skip-Its, Hula Hoops, Big Wheels; bicycles with streamers were the way to go, and sidewalk chalk was all you needed to build a city. Strawberry Shortcake, Rainbow Brite, and Pillow People came to bed with us every night. Imagination was the key. It made the Ewok Tree house big enough for you to be Luke, and the kitchen table and an old sheet dark enough to be a tent in the forest. Your world was the backyard and it was all you needed. With your pink portable tape player, Debbie Gibson sang back up to you, and everyone wanted a skirt like the Material Girl and a glove like Michael Jackson's. We knew all the words to "Walk Like an Egyptian" and "We Didn't Start the Fire." We recited lines with the Ghostbusters and still look to The Goonies for a great adventure. We flip through TV stations and stop at Knight Rider and Fame, and laugh with The Cosby Show, Family Ties, Punky Brewster, and Growing Pains. We hold strong affections for The Muppets and The Gummi Bears. And why did they take The Smurfs off the air? We are the ones who read Nancy Drew and The Hardy Boys, The Babysitters Club, and Judy Blume. Friendship bracelets were ties you couldn't break, and friendship pins went on your shoes, and pegged jeans were in as were layered socks, jean jackets, and jams. Charm necklaces, jellie bracelets, side ponytails, and boys' tails were things that every kid had to have. Braces with colored rubber bands made you look cool. The back door was always open and Mom served only red Kool-Aid to the neighborhood kids who never drank the New Coke. Entertainment was cheap and lasted for hours. All you needed to be a princess were high heels and an apron; the Sit 'n' Spin always made you dizzy but never made you stop; Pogo Balls were dangerous weapons, and Chinese Jump Ropes never failed to trip someone. In your Underoos you were Wonder Woman, Spider Man, or R2D2, and in your tree house you were king. In the Eighties nothing was wrong. We forgot Vietnam and watched Tiananman Square on CNN and bought pieces of the Berlin Wall at the store. AIDS was not the number one killer of the United States. In the Eighties, we redefined the American Dream, and those years defined us. We are the generation in between strife and facing strife and not turning our backs. The Eighties may have made us idealistic, but it's that idealism that will push us and be passed on to our children-the first children of the 21st Century. Never forget: We are the children of the Eighties.

Magical corridors rang with the golden-toned melodies of instruments and voices alike. The inhabitants of High Castle kept themselves busy even after their nine hundred ninety hours Pursuing Knowledge: various organizations existed to broaden their horizons and awareness…

Fifty-six minute sessions dominated the days at Longmeadow High Castle. The newcomers were shown into the Chambers of Knowledge where they were taught reading, writing, and arithmetic. These sessions kept them too busy to remember from which manor the others came. Indeed, friendship sprang up among even the most unlikely groups. It was this cordial comradeship that strengthened and gave them the courage needed to face the perilous hardships yet to come…

MASACKSIC

by Sydney Leavens
and Sheetal Khera

The Yearbook is not an organization for the student who sometimes turns in a paper a bit late. Because the annual yearbook must be completed by March, yearbook staffers move to the ticking of the clock. They churn out quality work, much of which is expected mere weeks after it is assigned. "The dog ate my layout," is not an acceptable excuse when time is a factor.

From September until March many diligent workers never see daylight. Perhaps, from their vantage point in room 113, they might catch a glimpse of the sun as it sets over the student parking-lot. They organize and crop pictures, write captions and copy articles, create layout for pages, and take care of the business aspect: organizing ad campaigns and keeping records of purchases.

The largest burden falls onto the shoulders of Co-Editors-in-Chief Evelyn Orenstein and Swaroop Samant and managing editor Aizza Hassan. They not only assist with the jobs mentions above, but also must organize meetings, and inspire the staff to meet deadlines. New advisor Roger LeBlanc also deserves credit for sacrificing his afternoons in order to make the 1998 Masacksic the best yearbook ever.

Impressions, the LHS literary magazine, has had a very successful year. A staff that more than doubled in its numbers from the previous year read, reviewed, selected and published its annual collection of student art and writing.

The magazine was led this year by Editors-in-Chief, senior Sydney Leavens and junior Aizza Hassan, and was advised by Mrs. Linda McShane. They were helped and supported by editors along with dozens of other dedicated staff.

Not just a portfolio of student work, this year's Impressions staff followed last year's in trying to make the magazine one continuous work that was more pleasing to read than earlier editions. Art and writing of similar themes were placed together, and the order of the selections was done to make Impressions as enjoyable to read as possible. The magazine has become a great place for students to express themselves to their fellow students in a variety of art forms.

Key Club 1998

The main goal of the Key Club here at LHS, is to impr home, school, and community through extensive commu service. Each member of the Key Club is required to do at l twenty-five hours of community service per quarter, as we attend weekly meetings. Under the leadership of this ye board members, seniors Angela Agnoli, Jacyln Brittman, E Randall, and Mark Zimring, juniors Kolajo Afolabi, Meag McCormick, Bridget Yearwood, and Christine Coady, Key C has had a very successful year. The club's advisors this year v Vesta Brown and Rita Hawker who helped the club reach m of its goals for the year. The club participated in several cha events, including the annual Hoop It Up in Springfield, and a great asset to the school, providing concessions at the m sports events throughout the year. They were also able to r money for the track fund, which will pay for LHS's new improved track. The Key Club is a great way for students to more involved with the community and to help provide diffe services for the school. Their efforts and accomplishments n go unnoticed and are greatly appreciated by everyone.

SADD, or Students Against Drunk Driving, is a club with a mission. Under the leadership of club president senior Meghan Martin and faculty advisor Mrs. Wiseman, the club's goal is to make both the school and the Longmeadow community as a whole aware of how drinking and driving can ruin one's life. This year, the club continued its campaign to stop the dangerous combination of drinking and driving by making posters to hang on school walls year round to warn students and by selling and handing out red ribbons at athletic events and in the hallways for awareness.

no soy de aquí

by Sydney Leavens

The LHS branch of the American Field Service (commonly known as AFS) offers students opportunities that most high schoolers merely dream of. Each year, the club assists students in participating in programs abroad. This year, two LHS students spent six months abroad. Junior Leah Tivoli departed to Argentina, and junior Rob Douglas left for Chile.

Another important function of the club was that of helping AFS exchange students Xulio Bieras, from Spain, Diego Hermosilla, from Chile, and Javier Reinick, from Argentina, to adjust to American culture. Senior Co-Presidents Isabelle Eiff and Jenn Kuhr planned AFS dinners and meetings to help these students feel more at home.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

bringing the world home

by Sheetal Khera

The International Club this year continued its efforts to bring cultural awareness to the school, putting on all-day awareness days and sponsoring many different events throughout the year. They also enjoyed their time with their face-painting booth at the annual Longmeadow Days.

The club was also very delighted and proud to be able to send delegations representing Mongolia and Guinea to the annual Harvard Model United Nations held in Boston in December. They also participated in the one day Western New England College (WNEC) Model UN later on in March.

This year, the Unity Club has not only helped create understanding among the many ethnic groups of the school, but has reached out to the community as well. The club, advised by Sandra MacDonald and led by senior President Aixa Weeks, raised money for various charities, including the Ronald MacDonald House and the Open Pantry, by holding fund-raisers. The club also successfully raised school spirit by forming the drill team, a group of dedicated club members who practiced every day after school in order to perfect routines to be performed during the halftimes of basketball games.

The purpose of the club remains the same. This is, according to Weeks, "to promote unity throughout the school and also in the community by helping others."

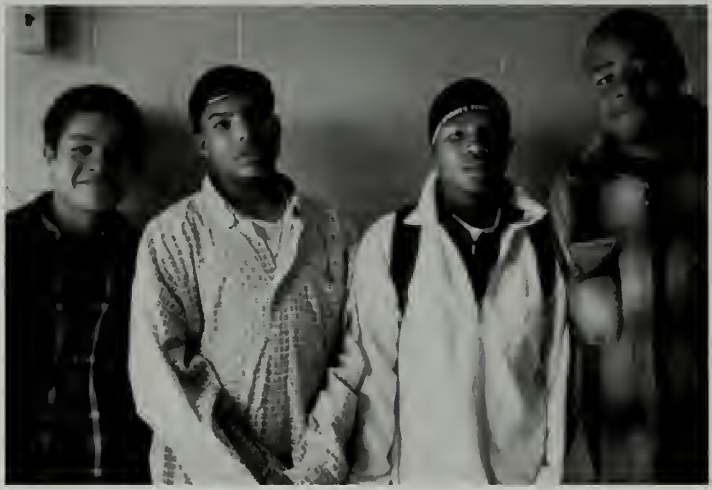
ABC

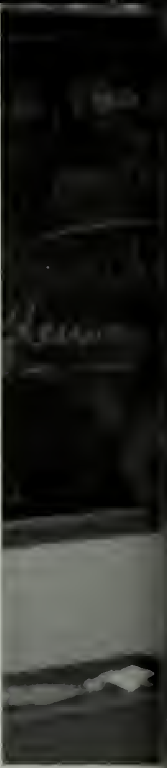


Alex Garcia, Shatic Mitchel, Elward Tyrell, Derek Johnson

by Sydney Leavens

A Better Chance, or ABC, offers academically gifted students from inner city settings the opportunity to attend well-reputed public and private schools across the country. The Longmeadow branch, established in 1974, supports four or five students annually, and participants usually attend Longmeadow High School from the beginning of freshman year up until graduation.

In order to remain in the program, a Longmeadow ABC student must maintain a GPA of at least 3.0. Participants also are assigned chores to do around their residential house in town. This year's participants were seniors Shatic Mitchell and Elward Tyrell, sophomore Alex Garcia, and freshman Dereck Johnson.



METCO

by Sydney Leavens

The Metropolitan Council for Educational Opportunities, or "Metco," began in 1968 as an integration program that allowed inner city students to attend suburban schools. However, the real reason that the program has continued so successfully, stresses assistant coordinator Sandra MacDonald, is because city and town officials of both Springfield and Longmeadow have realized that it benefits both communities.

For Springfield families participating in Metco, suburban school systems such as that of Longmeadow offer a supportive environment in which students become aware of the ways and means to accomplish their goals — mainly, that of continuing their education after high school. For Longmeadow, which has participated in the program for more than a decade, Metco serves two purposes. The program is state-funded through a grant, and thus the town has benefited financially from the arrangement. More important, however, is the diversity that Metco promotes. This year there are 48 students in grades K-12 in Metco, which is assisted by Coordinator Jack Kelley and MacDonald.

Bible study, anyone?

by Sydney Leavens

Fellowship Alive in the High school, or FAITH, as it is more commonly called, offers students the chance to share and discuss topics pertaining to Christianity. The club was started last year with the help of this year's seniors Sarah Gowtham and Erin Kent and has continued to grow in popularity ever since. Boasting approximately 20 members, the group met weekly under the guidance of student leaders Kent and Gowtham and advisors Mr. Potvin and Mrs. Gallagher. Meetings opened with a prayer, and then a section from the Bible was read and discussed.

According to Kent, FAITH has served multiple purposes. "Not everyone has a youth group in his/her church, and therefore don't necessarily have friends their own age with whom they share common beliefs. FAITH gives students of many different denominations a chance to see how similar their morals really are. We also want to share the word of the gospel. We feel we have something special and we don't want to keep it to ourselves." Kent further indicated that she had hoped by starting the club to defend her rights granted by the 1st Amendment.

The club also reached out to the community by going into downtown Springfield on the weekends to help the homeless and the poor. FAITH's biggest event has been celebrating an international day on the third Wednesday in September each year on which students gather around the flagpole and pray for the school and its leaders.

Seniors Erin Kent and Kristine Blinn can't decide what book of the Bible to discuss next, so they duel it out. (above)

MATH TEAM

Easy as Apple pi

by Sheetal Khera

The '97-'98 Math League team enjoyed an outstanding year. This years members were freshmen, Rob Berger and Tim Ferris, sophomores, Rebecca Jengraw, Gabriel Katch, Howard Kung and Kate Miller, juniors, Samuel Chang, Stephanie Lin and Michael Stevens, and seniors, Steve Cantin, Michael Schwerin and Drew Starr. This year the Math League members met each week to take a fifteen-minute test and hone up their math skills. Those with the highest scores on that weeks test, went on to compete at the upcoming meet. Faculty advisor, Mrs. Peters, helped the members discover their mistakes in problems and offered ways for the members to improve their approach to certain problems. The team focused on helping each other and always giving their best in an effort to be victorious over their opponents.

AS SCHOOLS MATCH WITS

by Aizza Hassan

This year Longmeadow High School's As Schools Match Wits team opened its season with a victory against Wilbraham-Monson early in September. The next match against St. Mary's produced similar results. Longmeadow's season ended with a loss to Loomis Chaffee. However, the team was far from devastated and is already looking forward to next year.

The '97-'98 As Schools Match Wits team will conveneonce more in the spring at the MA Academic Championships. The team faired extremely well in the event last year and performed well again this year. Congratulations on an excellent season!!

SCIENCE LEAGUE

By: Nancy Picknally

Science League is a club that consists of people who are some of the most talented science students in the school, and others who enjoy participating in the fun and occasionally off the wall events the club competes in. Team members get together and pre-build machines for many events; other events require only a bit of research and some luck. Several teams from LHS compete in each event and the combined talents of the many skilled members have resulted in a winning record in recent years. Regardless of their performance, the participants always enjoy the tasty cookies and drinks provided for them afterwards. During this time the results for each event are announced, as well as the overall winner and the events for the next meet. Perhaps senior Chris Johnson sums it up best, "It's a lot of fun. It's like science class without the tests." What could be better?

This year's Mock Trial team once again enjoyed an excellent season. Mock Trial is a statewide competition, in which teams take on the roles of both the Plaintiff and the Defense. Led by veteran attorneys senior Drew Starr and junior Meaghan McCormick and advised by Mr. Winseck, the team pulled through a trying season, once again facing their chief opponent, Minnechaug Regional High School. Members of the team ranged from seniors to sophomores taking on the roles of attorneys and witnesses on both sides of the aisle. This year's Mock Trial team was able to reap the results of their long hours of hard work and preparation, after ending with a very favorable record. With all of the young talent on the team, the Mock Trial team can look forward to many more successful seasons in the future.

DEBATE TEAM

pro vs. con

by Sydney Leavens and Drew Starr

Should the government establish a program to find renewable energy resources in the United States? That was the question facing members of the LHS debate team this year. The team, led by senior captain Rebecca Cohen-Shrage, was actually comprised of six two person teams, three of which argued the affirmative and three the negative. Longmeadow boasted one of the strongest two-person teams in that league, that of Cohen-Shrage and junior Alex Grodd, who were named the first-place affirmative. They ended their season with an impressive record of 11-1.

Respect Every Alternative Lifestyle In Today's Youth, or REALITY, is the Longmeadow High School Gay-Straight Alliance and is dedicated to providing a safe place for gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgendered students. In addition, one of the club's goals is to increase the student body's general awareness of gay and lesbian issues.

The 1997-98 school year is the first full year of REALITY's existence. With officers Rose Calucchia, Larry Mortensen, and Katie Michael, the club has held its first fundraisers, met with other local GSA's, created a regularly distributed newsletter through e-mail, and has plans to attend this year's Gay-Straight Youth Pride March in Boston.

When asked about the future of REALITY, Calucchia, a co-coordinator, said, "I'm confident that in the years to come, the group will grow in size and really begin to get the message of respect across. In the meantime, I hope that by just existing as a club, we've helped someone understand that (s)he is not alone; that there are accepting people in our school."

extra, extra, read all about it

by Sydney Leavens

Those who read this year's Jet Jotter would swear that it was a different paper. Under the guidance of faculty advisor Mrs. Warren, the school newspaper, in its 43rd year, introduced new columns to address issues of interest to students, like the Roving Reporter and Life Abroad.

Much of the paper's success is due to the leadership of Co-Editors-in-Chief Drew Starr and Sydney Leavens. However, the large amount of time contributed by page editors and the layout editor in assigning, editing, and laying out articles enabled the paper to meet its monthly deadlines with style.

Rough Draft

who needs real news?

by Jeff Moran and Nick Duquette

The Rough Draft went through a metamorphosis this year. It acquired a new advisor, Mr. Laird Ellis, a new editor-in-chief, Nick Duquette, and a new goal: complete world domination. Sadly, the Rough Draft did not fulfill its goal for complete world domination (this year, at least). However, they did publish quite a few newspapers.

Seriously, the Rough Draft is the magazine/newspaper of Longmeadow High. This year, the Draft overcame some chronic problems, and were able to publish somewhat regularly. However, a huge part of the Rough Draft was written by non-staff members. And that was the Rough Draft's real goal this year — to make newspapers and have fun. World domination is next year's goal.

BUSINESS CLUB

by Matt Harrison and Sherri Finkel

Since 1986, the Business Club has been serving the students of LHS. From managing the Jet Jotter, to selling carnations and roses on Valentine's Day, the Business Club keeps very busy.

The club doesn't just raise money. This year the club ran a very successful canned food drive, collecting 350 cans of food for local food charities. They also had the opportunity to serve food at the Springfield Rescue Mission.

The Business Club is advised by Mrs. Morse and this year's Honorary President was senior Ryan Willoughby. The position of Treasurer was filled by senior Elizabeth Picknally, and Secretary was senior Nicole Fishbein. The Club has enjoyed a successful year and is looking forward to continuing their service to the members of Longmeadow High School.

MOUNTAIN BIKING CLUB

watch out for that tree

This year marked the second year of the LHS Mountain Biking Club. Through this organization, students at LHS are able to learn and experience mountain biking with fellow peers and teachers. This year, the club went biking at a number of places around this region.

Aside from biking, members learn and practice new skills and techniques; thus further advancing their ability to ride.

SKI CLUB

hitting the slopes

by Sheetal Khera

As you pulled into the back parking lot on any given Thursday morning in January, chances were that you would see eager students with skis and other equipment filing inside. LHS' loyal ski clubbers enjoyed unwinding from a stressful day in school by skiing the slopes of the local ski area, Mt. Tom. Every designated Thursday afternoon, member of the ski club hurried to gather their things for the 2:30 bus departure for Mt. Tom. Although this winter did not prove to be the most desirable for skiers, the hills of Mt. Tom provided a refreshing way for students to endulge in some form of athletic activity this winter and spend time with their friends at the same time.

Members of the ski club pause at the bottom of the slope to marvel at the consistency of Mt. Tom's snow. (above)

in a state of nature

by Sheetal Khera

Those who love the outdoors found a home in the Outing Club here at LHS. This year's Outing Club, advised by Mrs. Laughlin saw its membership grow and found they were able to do more than they had originally hoped this year. Student leaders, juniors Heather and Kristen Fitts and sophomore Alix Sorrell, led the group on many excursions including a canoeing trip, an indoor rock climbing wall, and ski trip in the winter. Sophomore Nancy Picknally said, This year was a lot of fun. This was the first time I had ever been canoeing and I had a great time." Lots of fun was had by all, and they can't wait to see what trips next year will bring.

The Latin Club at LHS held its first meetings during the second quarter this year, after a successful attempt to establish the club last year. Working with advisor, Latin teacher Mrs. Healy, this year were founders and co-presidents senior Julie Niedzwiecki and junior, Matt Harrison. The Vice-President this year was junior Aizza Hassan, the position of Secretary was filled by junior Kolajo Afolabi, and the treasurer was senior Rachel Mandell. The Latin Club also had a club historian, junior Sam Cheng. The Latin Club's goals for this year were to increase the student's awareness of Ancient Roman Culture, which they did quite successfully.

helping to save lives

by Sydney Leavens and Katie Brookmeyer

This year Longmeadow branch of Amnesty International has concentrated its attention on Haiti. Most Haitians live in extreme poverty and lack basic necessities such as clothing, food, and drinkable water. Under the direction of Amnesty president Jon Friedman, a junior, and faculty advisor John Fitzgerald, club members welcomed a guest speaker from Springfield College to speak on the Haitian situation. Inspired by his presentation, the club decided to hold bake sales, clothing drives and even school supplies drives to send support to the Haitian people.

FRENCH CLUB

the other foreign language

by Jen Ranahan

The French Club here at LHS was formed in an effort to give interested students an opportunity to speak French outside of class and learn more about France and French culture. Members do this by getting together to take French related trips, and by watching French movies. The members have also had the chance to dine at excellent French restaurants in the area, such as Madeline's. The club has conducted several fund-raisers to help pay for these wonderful outings. In January, they sold "French" lollipops in an assortment of flavors. This year, the French Club advisor, Ms. Rooney, who was instrumental in helping the French Club do many of the things they had only before hoped to do.

Character, Scholarship, Leadership, Service: The four adow High School stands. Juniors and Seniors who met the ety's academic requirements received an application and a r inviting them to apply for membership in early fall. Those demonstrated the club's four virtues on their applications e then invited to join the society.

Society members were required to attend NHS meetings
y other week and also needed to complete one community ice project per semester. Such projects included running the ol bookstore during lunch blocks and participating in the r tutoring program during SLO's. Students could also help at Open Pantry or collect old clothing for the winter clothing

Beginning with an induction ceremony at which special

They all had heard the horror stories about Junior year--the sleepless nights, the unceasing labors, and the grueling examinations. Ready to conquer these trials, they worked the days away to prepare for such trials as the SAT (Source of Acute Trauma) and the AP (Awful Persecution). They had to alter their life schedules to accomplish all of their tasks; their sun-dials were ignored as they worked long after sundown. Yet all survived, and looked forward to what the next year would bring...

The success of the LHS Wind Ensemble seems to keep snowballing, with this year's ensemble playing incredibly well and making great music. The obvious highlight of their year was in April when they had the opportunity to play at Carnegie Hall, arguably the best known musical site in the United States. Each member felt quite honored to play at such a prestigious place of music history, and to even be a part of such a talented ensemble. Everyone in the ensemble contributed his/her full attention, focus, and ability to the band, ensuring their inevitable success. They were supported every step of the way by conductor, Mr. Michael Mucci, with his outstanding leadership qualities and ability to combine the technical aspects of music with intense passion and emotion. From the warm-ups to the concerts, this year's Wind Ensemble was perhaps one of the best ever, and there are only more good things to come.

Concert Band is one of Longmeadow High School's two band ensembles, and is, in addition, one of the largest ensembles in the school. It is composed of students in grades nine through twelve and conducted by Mr. Michael Mucci. The students enjoy the freedom and responsibility Mr. Mucci gives them in allowing them to select their own music for their concerts. Concert Band performed in three concerts this year, the Fall Concert, the Pops Concert, and the Spring Concert. The main highlight of the year for the group was the performance of "The Empire Strikes Back" in the Pops Concert. For this piece, the group combined with Wind Ensemble and were conducted by new student teacher, Mr. Matt Bejune. Mr. Mucci expressed his feelings by saying, "They have a tremendous sound and energy and it is a delight to conduct them."

This year's Lyrics vocal ensemble, directed by Mr. Peter Thomsen, took their music-making abilities to new heights. The 40-member ensemble learned early in the year that their responsibilities as musicians would extend far beyond performances at the annual Winter, Pops, and Major Works Concerts. They were invited to participate in the 1998 International Polychoral Concert in Montreal in April, scheduled to take place at the end of April vacation. The Polychoral Concert, taking place at Notre Dame Cathedral, features select high school choirs from around New England and Montreal. Besides the wonderful musical experience, Lyrics members will also share time doing "touristy" things, such as viewing a Montreal Expos baseball game and visiting the Space Camp.

According to Mr. Thomsen, the other successes of the group are "their ability to work cooperatively together on challenging music" and become "an ensemble based on leadership."

Maybe it was the love of music that drew them. Or maybe was the desire to perform. Or it could have been the need to cape the boredom of sitting in another SLO (aka Study Hall). hatever the reason, this year's Men's Chorus boasted more mbers than ever before. The group, open to any Longmeadow gh male who wished to sing, performed in the Fall and Pops ncerts, and also participated in the annual middle school tour. is year's highlights included For whatever it's worth by Stephen lls, By the rivers of Babylon by Sublime, It's all right by Huey Luis d Mexico by James Taylor.

La Capella

La Capella, the all female vocal ensemble here at LHS, had an extraordinary year, that began with a memorable Fall Concert. With their numbers practically tripling this year, La Capella has gained popularity through the years thanks to the wonderful performances of past groups. This year's group, composed of sophomore, junior, and senior girls, performed well in the Fall Concert, singing popular sings by Fleetwood Mac and Monica, that allowed the school to see the amazing talent of some of the girls through their many solos. Their continuous effort and determination to do well were apparent throughout the year to the group's leader, Mr. Peter Thomsen. The group always had fun singing, whether it was in rehearsal or performance, which everyone could see by the enthusiasm with which the group sang. Mr. Thomsen feels that, "La Capella has become an exciting women's vocal ensemble that is very proud of their accomplishments." The members of La Capella are very happy with their performances as well as the growth and unity of the group this year, and they can't wait to perform again next year.

The freshmen belonging to the Women's Cho- (formerly known as "Girl's Chorus") started out ir first year at LHS on the right foot. In this year's fall cert, the group performed three songs titled, "Shower People," "River in Judea," and "El Condor Pasa." Women's Chorus joined La Cappella, the Mens' rus and Lyrics in this year's Winter Concert in ember, to sing the traditional song, "The Lord Bless and Keep You." As it was their first year in the LHS sic program, the girls had to adapt to Mr. Thomsen's hing style and unite as a group to perform well in the Concert. With their enjoyable and excellent perfor- ces, the '97-'98 Women's Chorus showed LHS that re is never a lack of talent in the music department, ch only bodes well for the future.

Women's Chorus

by Sheetal Khera

This year's concert season started off with a bang on November 25th with the Fall Concert, in which the LHS Concert Band and many vocalist groups performed. Among the pieces the Concert Band played, "Waterdance" was an audience favorite. The Fall Concert was also the debut of the Freshmen Girls' Chorus. They performed extremely well, singing "River of Judea" among other pieces. The Men's Chorus was also featured, as was La Cappella. La Cappella performed a popular piece by Fleetwood Mac as well as one by Monica entitled, "For You I Will."

Next up on the concert schedule was the ever-popular Winter Concert held on December 18th. This concert brought the first performances by both the LHS Orchestra and Wind Ensemble, as well as I Cantori and Lyrics. The Orchestra played three pieces and their finale of "Hall of the Mountain King" by Grieg brought the audience to their feet in a standing ovation. The Wind Ensemble also performed extremely well featuring pieces that highlighted their many strengths. I Cantori, an A Cappella group performed as did Lyrics, singing better than ever. And what would any Winter Concert be without the Super Chorus. The Super Chorus consists of all the vocalist groups as well as alumni from LHS back home for Winter break, together on stage at once singing the traditional, "The Lord Bless You and Keep You."

The annual Pops Concert was also a smashing success this year. This concert featured a special performance from the Symphonic Band, which is a combination of Concert Band and Wind Ensemble and composed of a total of 110 members. Their playing of "The Empire Strikes Back" was a real hit with the audience. The concert also featured all of the talented vocalist groups here at LHS. The Freshmen Girls Chorus performed well, singing "Shoo Shoo Baby." La Cappella was a hit with their performance of "Route 66," as was the Men's Chorus and their rendition of "Lonesome Road." The two groups combined to perform "One Love" by Bob Marley. Lyrics was also featured, singing "Goldmine" with solos by many of its members. The vocal highlight of the evening for many, however, came with the performance by Lloyd, and their singing of "Seven." The Super Chorus finished out the vocal part of the night with the popular U2 hit "Still Haven't Found What I'm Looking For." The outstanding LHS Jazz Band was the last performance of the evening, playing three pieces including "Half the Fun" by Duke Ellington about Cleopatra's seduction of Antony while on the Nile.

Overall, the extensive musical talents, both instrumental and vocal, of the students here at LHS were well showcased throughout the year, with many outstanding and memorable performances.

Need an outlet for your artistic inclinations? Join the Art Club! A few years ago, several enthusiastic LHS artists started a club based on their shared hobby, but the club died with their graduation. Now the Art Club is making a comeback, and members hope that it is here to stay. Advised by Ms. Godin, this year's goal of student artists was not only to reestablish their club, but to take a trip in the spring to New York to spend a day touring art museums. To reach this goal, the club held many fund-raisers, including successful poster sale and many bake sales. What was so great about the club, sophomore member Christa Kolb explained, was that "[it] is open to anyone, regardless of talent."

“...put on the play ‘Voices From a High chool.”

by Sydney Leavens

Where do fierce competition and the love for acting come together? In the Drama Ensemble, of course. The Drama Ensemble is not just any club, it is a group of students with the competitive spirit of a sports team with a love for acting that none other could match. The group, under the direction of Vicki Phillips, competes with nearly 100 other in the statewide Massachusetts High School Drama Guild Festival. This year, the ensemble put on a performance of the play “Voices From a High School.”

From September until December, the group was indiscernible from any other acting class. Phillips held workshops in order for each of the 12-member-strong ensemble to hone his/her acting skills. In December, however, the atmosphere of the club changed. Auditions were held for parts in the competition performance, and meetings increased from once a week to every day after school as February 28, the day of Preliminary competition, grew closer. It was worth the struggle.

"After having attended Sunset Boulevard on Broadway in New York City, our group of English II students returned to the bus and prepared to leave when we discovered that two of our students, Lisa Dunn and Maria Bienkowski, were missing. I raced through Times Square enroute to the Minskoff Theater in order to find them. As I rushed to the theater alleyway, I saw the two children huddling arm-in-arm and waiting to be saved from the ravages of the 'Big Apple.' I called to them and they gamboled toward me with embarrassed glee."

Football

by Kellie Tracy

The LHS Varsity Football team capped off an amazing season with its first Superbowl win since 1992. The Lancers clearly entered the game as underdogs against undefeated Nashoba but left the field with a 12-10 win. "What made our season so special," remarked Varsity Head Coach Alex Rotsko, "was the fact that we were not highly rated at the beginning of the year but proved everyone wrong." The team's impressive season record of 10-2 was due greatly to the leadership of team senior captains Adam Kramer and Brian Wezowicz and to the unusual talent of such key players as Wezowicz, Kramer, junior Adam Diamond and sophomore Ryan McCarthy.

The Junior Varsity team had a good season as well. The team fought hard and strong for its 5-4 overall record. "The sophomores did a good job at J.V. level this year," remarked J.V. Head Coach St. George, "We expect many of them to move up to Varsity next year."

The Freshman football team emerged strong with a record of 6-3.

Cheerleading

by Kristen Sunter

Cheerleading, like most sports, practices everyday after school. The practices are hard in preparation for games, the squad's primary goal, as well as competitions. Says assistant varsity coach, Eleanor Matroni, "At practice, we try to cover a lot of material and all the squad members work hard to get the most of practice."

Cheerleading at games is a performance, not a competition. The Varsity cheerleaders cheer at all boys' Varsity football and basketball games. The J.V. squad cheers at the boys' J.V. home games and during the football season, has the added opportunity of joining the varsity squad for their home games. Kate Mullen, the J.V. Coach, says, "I have really enjoyed coaching this year and enjoy working with such a strong cheerleading program."

The Varsity squad here at LHS also competes in many competitions against other high school squads at the local and state levels. Last year, the cheerleaders made it to Nationals and competed against squads from all over the United States. Senior captains, Meredith Winer and Sarah Gowthorn, comment, "Cheerleading has come so far, we are really proud of our achievements, and we have had an excellent season. We hope to be on our way to Nationals again this year and achieve the high goals we have!"

Leading the program this year is head coach, Priscilla Diaz. She says of the cheerleaders' goals, "You'll never know if you don't try! So, don't spend you life wondering 'what if.'" We hope to see the cheerleaders off to Nationals again this year, so GO! FIGHT! WIN!!

Cross Country

by Nancy Picknally

This year was another in a long line of successful seasons for both the girls' and boys' Cross Country teams. Both teams finished with winning records, 11-2 for the girls and 10-3 for the boys. The girls finished third at the Western Mass competition, but didn't stop there continuing on to States. The boys' team came extremely close to making States, finishing fourth at Western Mass.

This year, the girls' captains were seniors Cassie Marantz, Jen Hamlin and Anna Yearwood. Other top runners included juniors Katie Ward, Stephanie Wesowitz and Christine Coady. Leading the boys team this year were senior co-captains, Andrew Camp, Chris Johnson and Mike Waryasz. Other top runners included juniors Trip Young and Chris Pelosi.

Men's Soccer

by Sydney Leavens

The Men's Varsity Soccer Team did not do as well as it would have hoped, finishing the season with a record of 6-8-3. However, according to senior team captains Mike O'Malley, Sean Keane, Ben Russell, and David Patterson, team unity strengthened as the season progressed. Said O'Malley, "[The season] brought us all together. We became really good friends." Key players included all four captains as well as juniors Brian Sherman and Rob Hampf and sophomore Tim Murphy.

The Junior Varsity team, led by Coach Don Hume, ended the season solidly with a record at about .500. Team captains were assigned at every game based on work ethic, which not only encouraged players to try hard in practice but also gave them valuable leadership opportunities. The Freshman team, concluded its season with only 4 wins and 3 losses; yet players learned to work together as a team, a skill which will be valuable when they advance to JV and Varsity level play.

Women's Soccer

This year's Varsity Girls' Soccer team had an excellent season. Coached by Robert Delano and captained by seniors Caitlin Wagner, Katy Heaps, Katie Garvey, and Bridget Dullea. The team worked hard throughout the whole season, with everyday after school practices, and finished with a record of 5-4. Although their season had a rocky start, the team really pulled together to get through all the ups and downs of the season. The team was also helped along by the tremendous play of sophomore Molly Dullea and freshman Leah Skypeck. Sophomore Laura Hardwood said, "It was a tough season, but we all worked hard and really came together to pull out some tough wins."

This year's junior varsity team, was coached by Kate Butler, and captained by juniors Andrea Marangoudakis, Ashley Mazur, Renee Osofsky, and Brittany Burger. The team's coach and captains were instrumental in leading practices that eventually led to a winning record for the team. With their hard work and enthusiasm, the team ended up with a record winning record of 10-5-3.

Field Hockey

The 1997-'98 girls' Varsity field hockey team started off the year with a win against Minnechaug and never looked back. Throughout the season the team really pulled together and pulled out some tough wins. Senior captains, Sam Prestia and Sassy Freedburg, along with coach Ann Simons, have worked hard to run great practices and get the team in shape. As Sophomore Caroline Adams said, "The team practices hard and really pulls together in practices and games. We always go out onto the field ready to play hard and win."

The J.V. field hockey team captained by sophomores, Brianna Murphy and Pam Sheffield, has also enjoyed an excellent season. They started off with a tie against Minenchaug, and they have practiced hard all season.

Volleyball

by Jen Ranahan

There is much to be said about a good effort, and the LHS girls' volleyball team should be commended for theirs. In only their second season here at LHS, the team has garnered tremendous support from everyone at the school. With great leadership the co-captains, seniors Stevie Laughlin and Stefanie Angelides, as well as junior Carla Goldman, led the team through everyday after school practices, and kept spirits up throughout the season. As freshman Sara Joyce says, "We've had a lot of fun this season. Our coaches and captains were great, and the team really pulled together to come away with some tough wins." The team showed LHS that they have great team spirit and good sportsmanship.

Golf

by Sheetal Khera

The '97-'98 LHS Golf team enjoyed a challenging season this year. In only their second season, the golf team continued to grow and improved their skills tremendously. This year, the team saw a surprising change from being a member of the spring sports line-up to one of the fall sports. Their final season record was 5-13-1, but the team really worked together and never once did their spirits fall. The team continually worked hard throughout the year and helped each other through the many ups and downs of the season. Says sophomore Evan Gerber, "Last year we had a lot of excellent players but it did not seem as if we were really working together. This year, we had a lot of talent and it felt like out team really worked as one." Congratulations to the LHS Golf team on their fine season!!

The '97-'98 season served as a rebuilding year for the men's varsity basketball team. The loss of several key players, coupled with a change in coaching, caused the team to struggle for its 3-17 record. The team's precious wins, however, including an exhilarating one against West Springfield in overtime, made it stronger. Under the leadership of captains senior Adam Kramer and junior Tom Moran, players paved the way for solid seasons in years to come.

The JV team also had a tough year, finishing the season with a record of 6-13. The team was coached by Jay Fenalson and led by sophomore captain Tim Walsh. Key players included sophomore Dan Gold, who was upped to varsity mid-season. The freshman team played very well to complete its season with an impressive record of 15-3. The team was led by captains Chris McCarthy, Jason Betley, and Brendan Soar.

The varsity girls basketball team had a great season this year finishing with an impressive record. The team lost seven games but won fourteen, placing them 3rd in Western Mass going into the WMass tournament. Unlike last year, the team had three co-captains who led them through a great season. Seniors, Bridget Dullea, Margaret McKenna, and Jessica Farmer pulled the team together for a great season. Team work could be responsible for the improvement over last year's team. The team made it to the play-offs in mid-season as opposed to last year berth at the end of the season.

Also having a great season was the girls Junior Varsity basketball team. They finished the season with a perfect record. The team worked well together, led by an excellent coaching staff and in a change from past years had no student captains. Also having a great season was the freshmen team who had a successful first season at LHS. Congratulations to all of the girl's basketball teams here at LHS for amazing seasons!!

The LHS ski team confronted the strong winds and cold temperatures of the winter season and represented LHS well on the slopes. Both the boys' and girls' teams were motivated by Coach Clark and assistant Coach Kerry, and were made up of strong skiers who helped guide the team to an excellent season. The girls' team performed well throughout the season and finished third in their division. The boys' team also performed well, finishing fifth in their division. Both teams continually showed their enthusiasm and love for the sport, and felt the closeness of the teams helped provide a fun and enjoyable, as well as successful season.

Men's Swimming

by Sydney Leavens

For the LHS men's swimteam, this season was supposed to be a rebuilding year. Many leading competitors had graduated, and there was not a single senior on the team. However, due to the hard work of some very talented underclassmen and the leadership of team captains juniors Adam Szafran, Jess Hill and Mike Russo, the team surprised even itself. The boys capped off their impressive season record of 11-3 with a second place finish at Western Mass. "The team exceeded my expectations," said Coach Mandell, "[and its] Western Mass performance was an eye opener to other teams."

Key swimmers were juniors Szafran, Russo, and Brett Fagin, sophomores Aaron Mayausky, and Mark Kolonowski and freshman Travis Hill, all of whom qualified for States competition.

The strong diving of freshman Lee Cotton often helped to determine close meets in Longmeadow's favor.

The women's swim team ended its season strongly with a season record of 9-5 and a sixth place finish at Western Mass. Under the leadership of senior captains Katie Hennessy and Emily Sturgis, the team beat strong long-time rivals. Said Coach Mandell of the season, "The team lost some strong seniors but we always seem to somehow get by, living up to our reputation as the team to beat." This was especially true at WMass, where almost every swimmer shaved seconds off her seed time in every race.

Some key swimmers were seniors Hennessy, and Leah Halsey, junior Jill Varley, and sophomores Kim Sullivan, Candice Olszewski, and Katie Spinelli, all of whom qualified for States competition.

Crucial to the women's success was the Longmeadow Women's diving program, undoubtedly the strongest in Western Mass. Under the the leadership of senior captains Oni Matulewicz and Signe Dalquist, diving clinched many victories for the team. Dalquist set the 6-dive school record of 220.7 points at a home meet against Cathedral and the 11-dive school record of 391.95 points at WMass.

Wrestling

by Sydney Leavens

Wrestling is often said to be one of the toughest of all winter sports, and with good cause. Participants must endure hours of grueling conditioning, push themselves to the limits in mental and physical strength, and often diet as well to qualify for low weight classes. This year's Longmeadow wrestlers endured the pain and sacrifices and emerged as some of the strongest competitors in WMass.

Under the leadership of captains seniors Eli Zimmer, Tim Dubay, Ken Sheffield, and Mark Zimring and junior Mike McCarthy, the team thrived. One of the highlights of the season was the team's resounding win against Agawam at home by around 30 points.

Key contributors included Dubay, who finished the season first in his weight class (171) and was voted most valuable wrestler in Western Mass, Zimmer, who was third in Western Mass in his class (189) and McCarthy, who also finished third in WMass in the 112 weight class.

Ice Hockey

by Sheetal Khera

The '97-'98 LHS Hockey team enjoyed an excellent season once again. The team finished with a 10-9-1 record and qualified for the Western Massachusetts tournament. The team was led by head coach Brian Foley as well as talented senior veterans such as Sean Keane, who this year became Longmeadow's leading all-time scorer with 89 goals, 83 assists and 172 points. Their skill and determination have made Longmeadow High School proud and the enthusiasm and outstanding play of younger members of the team have given the team hope for many more successful seasons in the future.

As all good things must come to an end, the days at Longmeadow High Castle eventually became memories as its lords and ladies graduated and moved on to the next leg of their journey. What happened next cannot yet be written down--no magic scroll reveals the future. Yet, surely all the High Castlers laid the teachings, experiences, and memories of the Kingdom of Longmeadow as foundations for their own dreams and the next chapters of their stories.

"Yesterday a child came out to wonder
Caught a dragonfly inside a jar
Fearful when the sky was full of thunder
And tearful at the falling of the star
Then the child moved ten times around the seasons
Skated over ten clear frozen streams
Words like, "when you're older" must appease him
When promises of someday make his dreams

And the seasons, they go round and round
And the painted ponies go up and down
We're captive on the carousel of time
We can't return we can only look behind
From where we came
And go round and round and round
In the circle game."

Once Upon a Time and Always. . . .

From London…

…to Baypath

Once upon a time I ventured into an unknown classroom at LHS for the first time. I nervously turned around to see a friendly-looking Indian boy sitting behind me. "Hi, my name is Swaroop." Little did I know that this introduction would be the start of four years of friendship. Working on the yearbook with you, Swaroop, was only a very minute part of our time together. And although I got frustrated at times, there was never any doubt in my mind that we would put out a great book. That is what happens, you see, when two friends work hard at perfecting something: you get something wonderful.

Love, Evelyn

Well Ev, we've truly seen it all, my friend: "La Caperucita Roja," the Spot, Starlight Express, the Reject Shop, "Sinner Man," the Senior Class Play, its consequences, pigs, Puntos quizzes, yearbook, yearbook, yearbook… Good God(s)! How could I have dealt with the madness and hilarity that these four years have been without you analyzing and laughing at it all along with me? True, at times you, being the weirdo you are, have added to the madness…and I wholeheartedly appreciate it! You've been the greatest "Co" and friend. Thank you.

Always, Swaroop

Thank you, Class of 1998!

To Dream…To Create…

You've done it, Matt!

The Year 1998

Britain and the world bid farewell to Diana, Princess of Wales, on a sparkling September morning with a grand tribute rich in pagentry. Since her death in a car crash in Paris and a week before, the country had witnessed an astonishing outpouring of grief that forced a repentant monarchy to join in the kind of full celebration of Diana's life that the millions of people who flooded into London demanded.

Despite comparisons with earlier groups like Menudo and New Kids on the Block, the Spice Girls have jumped into superstardom, grabbing the adoration that comes with overnight worldwide fame. WIth only one album to their credit, the five young women took the world by storm with their saucy antics and innumerable shouts of "Girl Power."

Mother Teresa was among the most well-known and highly respected women in the world in the later half of the twentieth century. She dedicated her life to helping the poor, the sick and the dying around the world, particularly those in India. Her selfless work with the needy brought her much acclaim and many awards, including the Nobel Peace Prize in 1979. She died at the age of 87 on September 5, 1997 of heart failure at her convent in Calcutta.

The Dave Matthews Band has demonstrated over the course of three albums and several years of extensive touring that it has staying power on the record charts. Combining the elements of rock, jazz, funk, folk and world beat, the group is soulful and subtle in its harmonies and rhythms.

The Year 1998

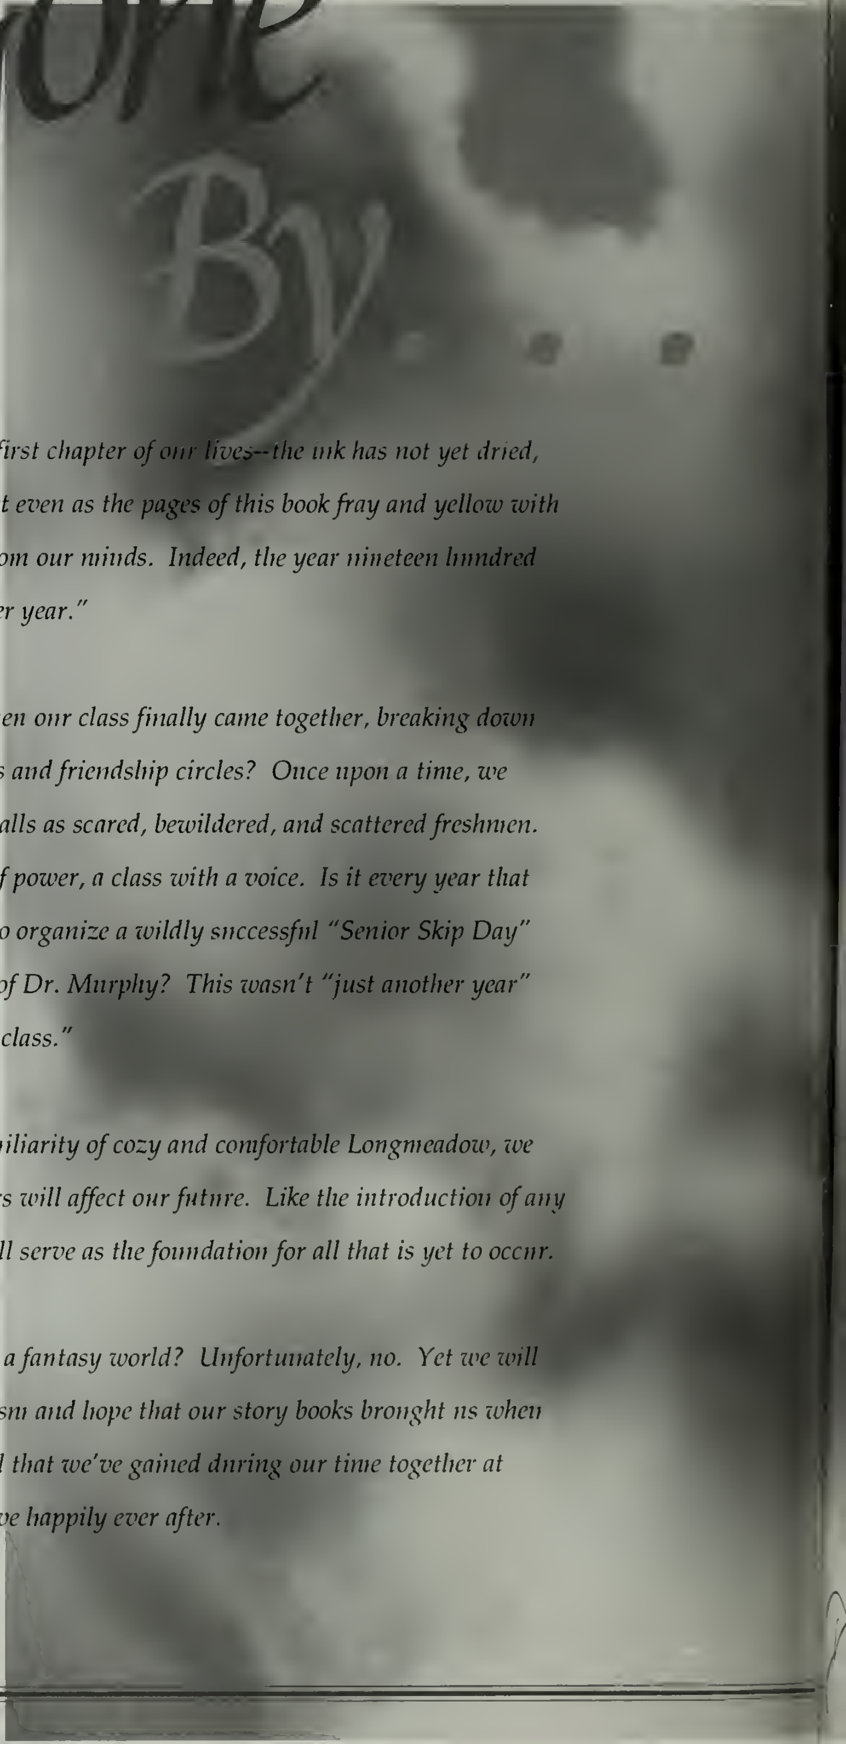
Congressman Sonny Bono passed away after his fame as Cher's ex-husband and an American pop culture icon.

The Verve Pipe is an incredible rock/pop/alternative band whose first single, "Photograph," became a fairly big hit. But its success cannot be compared to their latest single, "The Freshman." That song enjoyed time at Number ONe on the Billboard chart. Te Verve Pipe carved their own niche in the world.

Time Gone By. . .



Thus, we've already written the first chapter of our lives--the ink has not yet dried, the memories are still fresh. Yet even as the pages of this book fray and yellow with age, its contents will not fade away from our minds. Indeed, the year nineteen hundred and ninety-eight was not "just another year."

Was it "just another year" when our class finally came together, breaking down the barriers between cliques and friendship circles? Once upon a time, we entered Longmeadow High School's halls as scared, bewildered, and scattered freshmen. This year, we leave united as a class of power, a class with a voice. Is it every year that the wonders of America Online help to organize a wildly successful "Senior Skip Day" and a "C-Block Walkout" in support of Dr. Murphy? This wasn't "just another year" and we certainly aren't "just another class."

Now, as we face leaving the familiarity of cozy and comfortable Longmeadow, we reflect on how these four years will affect our future. Like the introduction of any fairy tale, our experiences together will serve as the foundation for all that is yet to occur.

Will we lead fairy tale lives in a fantasy world? Unfortunately, no. Yet we will face reality with the optimism and hope that our story books brought us when we were little. And perhaps, using all that we've gained during our time together at Longmeadow High School, we WILL live happily ever after.

Our thanks to you, the reader of Once Upon a Time, the 42nd volume and 1998 edition of the Longmeadow High School Masacksic, for your interest in our work and for recognizing that this book's captions and quotes are all in good-natured fun.

Without a doubt, this year's staff was one of the most enthusiastic, interesting, committed, and hilarious groups ever assembled at LHS. It was truly an honor to be able to work with such determined workers, and such great friends. We cannot express how thankful we are to them for all that they've done for us. We did it!

Special thanks to our Jostens' Representative, Matt Fenn. Even when confronted with two spasmatic and melodramatic editors bemoaning one disasterous yearbook crisis or another, he always kept his cool and proved to be our voice of reason--with a smile, of course.

And finally, we thank Mr. Leblanc. We have observed him in awe--how can one man be so dedicated to an after-school activity? He invested so much of his time, money, and spirit into our endeavor. And on top of that, he has kept his sanity (even through all of the missed deadlines, caption wars, and missing zip disks)! Most of all, we thank Rog for being a friend and an inspiration for us to keep chugging along even when we were fed up with it all. We couldn't have done it without him.
